ANTI-LYNCHING RESOLUTIONS GET RESPONSE FROM NORTH

Editor's Note: We are publishing a letter written by Dr. Joel Whitaker of Indianapolis, Indiana, to a citizen of Grenada relative to the resolutions condemning the anti-lynching bill adopted at a mass meeting held at the City Hall of Grenada on the afternoon of Tuesday, January 18, as we feel that it will be of interest to many of our readers.

I have just gotten the action of your Chamber of Commerce over the radio—Congratulations.

Van Nuy's was taken into my wife's father's old law firm, which was the greatest in Indiana, Myers (her father) Gatis & Rawlinson (who refused the Democratic nomination the year Smith was nominated, this I am sure was on account of his health).

Van Nuy is getting the ax and has been slated for retirement here because he voted against Roosevelt's Supreme Court Bill and there are thousands here who felt as I did, that he was right. I hope he runs independently—that the Democrats put up Williams, (or who ever it is) and that the Republicans put up anybody that the Ballis of Muncie recommend.

I'm sure as shooting vote and hope for the election of the Republican.

My mother died the month I was 12. She and several ladies were talking of someone who had turned Republican and I knew something awful had happened. I asked what it was a Republican? And she said, "A white man who is not as good as a negro." This was in Raleigh, N. C. in the '90's.

I don't know but guess there are less than 50,000 negroes in Indiana but there are about 40,000 in Indianapolis. Hip, Hip Hooray for the anti-lynching bill!

I have been to Grenada twice in my life, when I was a child with my mother, to visit her aunt, Mrs. E. G. Walthall, the wife of General Walthall. Maybe you people in sure if he were living, he'd be a member of your Chamber of Commerce and would have come over the radio with you. He is our kind.

Another thing, the first time I was ever in this part of the country, was about 1908-4, at the Confederate Reunion in Louisville. I met an old soldier on the streets, took him to my hotel to breakfast. He had "Forrest" on his hat; told me he was from Mississippi. I asked if he knew my mother's uncle by marriage, General Walthall and you'd have thought I had spoken of Good or General Lee.

He said he wanted to tell me something. He said that General Walthall was the first white man who ever sat on a jury with negroes in Mississippi, either at Grenada or Holly Springs, immediately after the war. A man was being tried for his life, whites and blacks were called for jury service, whites gave excuses, blacks were accepted, finally called Gen. Walthall (I don't doubt but to humiliate him). Gen. Walthall gave no excuse and was accepted as a Major-General and one of the handsomest men of the Confederacy and—darkies. This old soldier said when the jury selected a foreman of the jury who happened to have belonged to Judge Walthall, the General's uncle, turned to the other darkies and said, "Let's hear what Marse Edward has to say about it." The General said, the man was innocent. The foreman said "Now you all know" and that report was made. This may be incorrect, but it is as accurate as told to me.

I wish you and the rest of your fellows Gen. Walthall, my mother, and all Grenada was here with me—We'd all do as every good Democrat should in Indiana and vote, I did hope for Van Nuy, but NOW for any high grade Republican.

Yours truly,
JOEL WHITAKER,
807 Hume-Mansur Bldg.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

P. S. See if I am wrong, the most brilliant minds in the Senate, are Glass, (Va.) Bailey (N. C.) your own Pat Harrison. Will Bailey and I were born in the same village, Warrenton, (?) N. C., slept in same bed and played together as children, not the least but lovable—these were great things, character, courage and intelligence. (Oh, how smart he is.) J. W.

To Set Early Deadline For Tenant Loans

Applications From Tenants In This County Must Be Filed
Within Few Weeks

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 3.—Thomas B. Fatheree, regional chief of the Bankhead-Jones tenant purchase program in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, announced this week that tenant farmers who expect to apply for loans under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones measure must do so within the next two weeks.

The Farm Security Administration plans to set a deadline on the acceptance of loan application for some date in February, Fatheree said, in order to permit borrowers to acquire their farm in time to move on and make a 1938 crop.

Applicants are being accepted from eligible tenant farmers in the following counties:

Mississippi: Attala, Coahoma, Covington, Forrest, Franklin, Grenada, Holmes, Humphreys, Itawamba, Jefferson, Kemper, Lawrence, Lee, Leflore, Marion, Marshall, Montgomery, Neshoba, Oktibbeha, Panola, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Rankin, Simpson, Smith, Tate, Union and Walthall.

From five to ten loans will be made in each of the designated counties to carefully selected tenants to enable them to purchase family-size farms of their choice and make necessary repairs and improvements. All bona fide tenant farmers residing in one of the designated counties are eligible to apply. He must, however be unattached to borrow money for the purpose from any other private or public source.

From the applicants a county committee, composed of three farmers, will select those to whom loans will be made. Careful attention to past record, honesty, ability, industry and similar details will be given to each applicant in order to pick only those who, in their opinion, will make the most of the opportunity offered.

The loans will be paid in annual installments extending as long as 40 years with interest on unpaid balances at three percent. The tenant will be permitted to purchase the farm of his choice provided it meets established standards and can be purchased at a price in keeping with its value.

The tenant must agree to follow a long-range farm and home management program embracing "live-at-home" farm practices as advocated by the state extension service.

FSA rehabilitation supervisors in each of the designated counties are accepting applications now.

NOTE: Applications received in Grenada county week ending January 21, 25. Received in state 880.

Mr. Henry Marter, of Grayport, was in town Wednesday. Mr. Marter is one of Grenada county's foremost farmers as well as one of its finest men.

Unprejudiced critics are agreed upon the fact that the time in which the Christian religion played its greatest roll or held most dominant influence in the affairs and minds of men, at least as far as the caucasian races were concerned, was the era from time of beginning of crusades till discovery of America. After which the era known as the age of reason developed a modifying influence. But the time when the churches of America came into their sphere of greatest influence especially in our Southland were in the troublous days immediately following the Civil War. Times when backs were to the wall, none knew whither to turn for consolation, save to God. In these days every one belonged to some church, free thought and reason were regarded as blasphemous. It made no difference whether the whale swallowed Jonah or Jonah swallowed the whale, if it was in the Bible it was just that way.

In the front of my mother's Bible were these words:

"He who reads to doubt or scorn, better for him had he never been born." One not belonging to the church was looked on almost with suspicion. The preacher was a man of much influence in community. Much beloved and respected and was almost without exception a model character. As best he could living up to the teachings of the Bible. I chose as the subject of this article "Old Providence," as that is the early church which forms the most indelible imprint upon my mind, the church which all my own people belonged to and the first church I ever attended, but representation of all the churches of that day. This is not the Providence building of today—nor the original lay church which stood upon this same ground by the old cemetery. But the old church down in the Ed and Gene Bowen neighborhood. At Camp Springs, Miss.

Source of wealth and comfort and of all the essentials of life, productive soils have been the greatest force motivating people through all the centuries, the commissioner stated. With this age-old hunger for productive land, however, there has always been wastefulness and destruction. Depleted soil resources are everywhere—in China, probably the oldest civilized country, in South Africa, France, Greece, Spain, Australia, Madagascar and Italy, wasted land is a problem of increasing intensity in America, where after only 300 years millions of acres are virtually destroyed by erosion, floods, and dust storms.

"Our own Mississippi has not been spared. Of our total land area of 30,397,892 acres, only a third shows little or no erosion. 19,854,000 acres affected by sheer erosion, and from one-fourth to three-fourths of the fertile topsoil is lost from sixteen million acres. Gullies are found on nearly a third of the land area of the state, are severe on more than four million acres, and have destroyed for all practical purposes, 451,996 acres of once fertile Mississippi farm land.

"Happily there has been an awakening to the consequence of needless land use and to the necessity for the conservation of soil resources. Some six million acres—approximately one-fifth of the land area of the state—is receiving systematic protection from forest fires. Thousands of young men in the O.C.C. camps and in the soil conservation camps have restored forests, stopped gullies, and constructed terraces upon multiplied thousands of acres of Mississippi hill-sides. Still more thousands of acres have been terraced under the Extension program.

"All of this means that Mississippi is seriously engaged in a program of conservation. It is, however, but the beginning of the really stupendous task that is ahead. Barren cutover lands and gullied hill-sides to be seen almost everywhere, are testimonies that if this generation and generations to follow are to prosper, the work of soil conservation must go on with increased vigor."

Frank M. Wright, Native Grenada Countian Is Dead

One Time Candidate For Sheriff, He Was 71 Years of Age At Death

Mr. Frank Mortimer Wright, one time candidate for sheriff of Grenada county, died Monday night, January 31, at John Gaston Hospital, in Memphis. He was 71 years old.

Mr. Wright had been ill a week. He was born in Grenada and lived here until he went to Memphis 25 years ago. He owned a grocery store here for years and was active in the Methodist Church.

After he moved to Memphis he organized the now defunct Independent Insurance Company with offices in the Exchange Building. After more than five years with the company, he worked as a salesman for other insurance companies until his retirement ten years ago.

Mr. Wright is survived by four daughters, Mrs. H. J. Hudson of Cairo, Ill.; Mrs. C. R. Watkins and Mrs. Harry Westbrook, of Memphis, and Miss Frances Wright of Memphis, and a brother, James Wright, of Dallas, Texas.

Mississippi Makes Material Progress In Conserving Soil

Reforestation, Terracing, Fire Protection, All At Greatest Rate Ever.

The one problem of paramount importance to civilization and especially to agricultural Mississippi is the preservation of soil productivity, writes J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture, in his Soil Conservation Week message.

Source of wealth and comfort and of all the essentials of life, productive soils have been the greatest force motivating people through all the centuries, the commissioner stated. With this age-old hunger for productive land, however, there has always been wastefulness and destruction. Depleted soil resources are everywhere—in China, probably the oldest civilized country, in South Africa, France, Greece, Spain, Australia, Madagascar and Italy, wasted land is a problem of increasing intensity in America, where after only 300 years millions of acres are virtually destroyed by erosion, floods, and dust storms.

Legislator J. H. Bull Says It Pays To Ad- vertise In Sentinel

Had Ten Calls To Rent House
Before He Had Been In Town 15 Hours

Hon. James H. Bull, Grenada County Representative, requested that we run the following classified ad in The Sentinel "T. S." (till further notice) beginning with last week's issue, January 28:

"FOR RENT: 6 room house on Adams Street, February 1st. Apply J. H. Bull.

He came in to see us Saturday, January 29, and said by all means take his ad out, don't run it any more. He stated that he had ten calls asking to rent the house before he had been in town 15 hours.

The Sentinel is glad that Mr. Bull got such good results from this ad and appreciates him telling us about it.

600 People Attend John Deere Day At Grenada Theatre

"What's New In Farm Equipment" Was Sponsored By Roberts Hardware Co.

John Deere Day, a program at the Grenada Theatre Wednesday morning, sponsored by Roberts Hardware Co., at which four talking pictures shown: "Friendly Valley," an all-Hollywood feature packed with singing—dancing—music and romance; "School Days," an instructive educational picture on tractor service; "Champions on Parade," a worthwhile educational picture showing the most modern farming methods and "What's New in Farm Equipment," a new reel of new ideas, new developments and new John Deere Equipment to cut costs, went off in a big way with 600 guests attending.

Mr. Tigrass received a 7" Bantam plow and Mr. Lucius Koonce a corn and cotton planter, both free and given by Roberts Hardware Co., without obligation.

Mr. Roberts stated, "we feel sure we will receive a good response from John Deere Day, it was a success, and we appreciate the fact that so many farmers of this section are alive to new farming methods which we demonstrated on the screen."

R. C. Floyd Now With Jitney-Jungle

Mr. R. C. Floyd is now associated with the Jitney-Jungle in the meat market department.

Mr. Floyd has had many years experience in the meat market business and comes to Jitney-Jungle well recommended. His latest connection was with Arthur Cecil Market in Memphis.

Messrs. Ellis and Gully said that, "they considered themselves fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Floyd and assure the public that he will make every effort to please them."

Mr. Floyd and his family have taken an apartment at the home of Mrs. John T. Nason.

BIRTHDAY BALLS GREAT SUCCESS THROUGHOUT STATE REPORTED

The success of Birthday Balls throughout the state is indicated in reports coming in daily from the counties, according to the state chairman of the celebration, Dr. Felix J. Underwood. Funds from this source will go to the new National Foundation to fight infantile paralysis.

"The principle of working hand in hand with the national plan is sound in every respect," Dr. Underwood said. "Immediate help will then be available wherever disaster strikes. Because of the epidemic proportions of infantile paralysis in Mississippi during the past two years, we as a state stand to gain much more than we put into the Foundation if we go all the way with the national group."

"It is hoped that infantile paralysis in epidemic proportions will move out of Mississippi in 1938," the health executive continued. "If it travels southwest at its usual rate, about 200 miles each year, then this hope is not unfounded. However, that problem will still be with us. We can count on sporadic new cases springing up in the terrible wake of this disease. Moreover, we cannot so soon forget the victims of the past two years, many of whom should have

Joe H. Harris Found Dead Last Saturday Morning, Jan. 29th

tributed To a Heart Attack

Mr. Joe H. Harris, 48, a resident of Holcomb for the past 25 years, was found dead in his room in a Greenwood hotel Saturday morning, January 29 around ten o'clock. His death was attributed to heart failure.

Mrs. Claud Perry entertained the members of Circle No. 8 of the First Baptist Church Monday afternoon with a Jubilee Bazaar. Contests were played by the guests after which Mrs. Perry appointed committees for the different phases of work to be carried out during the year.

Birthday Party

Thursday afternoon of this week, little Miss Olivette Craig, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Craig, celebrated her second birthday with a lovely birthday party.

After receiving her birthday gifts from her wee guests, Olivette led her little friends to the dining room where they discovered a beautiful birthday cake on which two tiny pink candles were burning brightly. They were served home-made ice cream and cake by the little girl's mother.

During the afternoon various games were enjoyed and each small guest was presented with a tiny doll and a bright balloon. Those who helped Olivette celebrate her birthday were Joan Pressgrove, Joyce White, Anne Kent, Dorothy Liles, Anne Louis Mitchell, and Jacquelyn Sanderson.

To Those Who Loved Jim Betz

I am thinking of Grenada's happy young boy, who has just passed away. I did not know him well, but the one conversation that I had with him is one to be remembered.

One morning another middle-aged woman and I went into the swimming pool, hoping to learn to swim. My efforts to get a few hints, upon swimming from the life-guard, were futile. Unanimously, and with one accord, those young boys assured me that they were not hired as swimming teachers. Nor were they even ALLOWED to teach people, they said. Jim Betz was not on duty that morning.

One day later, I was a spectator at the swimming pool. Jim Betz came up and said, "Mrs., why don't you come on in and swim too?" I replied that I saw no way of learning how. In his genuine, and always hearty and friendly way, he exclaimed, "Why Mrs., I'll be GLAD to help you learn to swim, just any time!"

I made the mental reservation, "What an unusual young boy!" And then I remembered that once upon a time the kingdom of the South was famous for the chivalry and courtesy of her men. In Jim Betz, there must have been the blood of true Southern aristocracy.

When I heard that this lad had gone on to the land of "grand adventure," I remembered the proverb that "the good die young." Since I did not know Jim Betz quite well enough to write a personal poem in his honor, and since I see little sorrow in departing this sphere young, let me dedicate these lines to him:

PLEASE, LORD
Let me not reach age,
With its burden of care;
Its limping limb and its faded hair.
Let me live in the light of the sun,
The gleam of the stars.
And let me, dear Lord,
Depart this cold clime,
E'er the courage of youth,
Shall succumb to old Father Time!
Mrs. Guidry.

Friday, Feb. 4th Is Arbor Day

Friday, February 4, is designated in the State as Arbor Day. Mississippi first observed Arbor Day in 1890 and most of the schools of the state have observed this day since that time with appropriate programs. In 1930 the Legislature of the state definitely fixed the first Friday in February of each year as Bird, Flower, and Arbor Day.

The beautification of the school grounds should receive attention at all times during the year with special emphasis placed on Arbor Day programs. There is nothing that adds to the beauty and attractiveness of a community any more than a beautiful school building set in the midst of beautiful surroundings.

We wish to insist this year that the teachers in every school of the state have an Arbor Day program and carry out the purpose of the law by setting out shade trees and shrubbery on the school grounds. Trees planted now will be a joy to future generations and a living monument to those who plant them.

February 2nd Social Hygiene Day

The Mississippi Social Hygiene Association is joining the national organization in sponsoring February 2 as Social Hygiene Day. The purpose is to focus the attention of the citizens of this state on the problem of syphilis control.

The State Board of Health has had an average of more than 10,000 cases of syphilis reported each year since 1918, and the disease has been on the increase. These figures indicate that not less than 250,000 people in Mississippi have now, or have had syphilis. That is to say, there is five times more syphilis than pellagra, ten times more syphilis than cancer, twenty times more syphilis than tuberculosis, fifty times more syphilis than diphtheria, and sixty times more syphilis than typhoid fever.

An examination of the record shows that not only sickness but a great deal of destruction of life results from syphilis; for in one of the recent years in Mississippi we find that 255 people died of simple uncomplicated syphilis; more than 1,000 people of syphilitic apoplexy; 51 people, syphilis of the brain; 735, syphilitic heart disease; 15, syphilitic aneurysm; 575, syphilitic kidney disease; 461 women died with syphilitic complications of child birth; 875 infants were born dead with congenital syphilis; a total of over 8,400 deaths from this one disease!

Nor is this all the story. Ten per cent of the people who died from pneumonia or tuberculosis died because the combination of a syphilitic heart and their other disease was more than they could survive.

The two large insane hospitals of Mississippi, including both white and colored people, report as high as 26 per cent with general syphilitic infection and as much as 10 per cent with syphilis of the brain.

The figures on syphilis as a cause of blindness are not complete but 10 per cent of all blindness is known to be due to this disease.

If this terrible wreckage of human life is to stop, Mississippi must take immediate action. The people of Mississippi must be informed how to prevent syphilis. Clinics must be established with medicines and instruments to properly attack this disease. Although a program of syphilis control will cost a certain amount of money, it will be a great economy in the state's most precious assets, human life and happiness.

Seek Most Profitable System of Farming

State College, Miss., Feb. 3.—A search for the most profitable system of farming and the best paying farm practices was conducted on 1,528 farms in 26 counties in 1937, E. H. White, state director of extension, said here.

These farms are known as unit and area test demonstration farms and the owners are cooperating with the Mississippi Extension Service and the Tennessee Valley Authority by carrying out recommended practices on their farms and by keeping complete records.

Director White explained that these farms represent all types of soils, different size and types of farms and type of farming areas. An effort is being made, he said, to determine why, if possible, some farmers succeed and others in the same community fail.

The value of using superphosphate on pasture, winter cover crops and summer legumes, was clearly demonstrated on these farms. Cooperating in the program the TVA supplied 1,528 tons of superphosphate which was used on 30,800 acres of pasture and legume crops. The phosphate was used to improve 6,212 acres of pasture, 2,466 acres lespedeza, 7,771 acres soybeans and cowpeas, 15,833 acres winter legumes, 145 acres black locust, 245 acres alfalfa and 168 acres of kudzu.

Based on field record taken in 1930 fields during the year, Director White said, the value of the increased yields of hay, corn, and cotton following winter legumes plowed under and which had been fertilized with superphosphate, was estimated to be $500,000. In addition, it was estimated that pastures were improved 25 per cent.

The results further indicate that the use of superphosphate and lime under legumes and on pastures is highly essential in soil improvement and should be included in any permanent program of farming in the hill counties of the state. While the use of superphosphate was limited to the tests on the demonstration farms, farmers generally can readily obtain phosphorus in the form of basic slag and acid phosphate.

Counties cooperating in the program are Alcorn, Benton, Calhoun, Chickasaw, Choctaw, Copiah, DeSoto, Forrest, Grenada, Holmes, Itawamba, Jones, Lee, Lincoln, Lowndes, Marshall, Monroe, Neshoba, Oktibbeha, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Rankin, Tishomingo, Tippah, Tate and Union.

IS THE MASONIC TEMPLE SUITABLE FOR A CITY HALL?

We hope the City Council will go into the matter thoroughly before they obligate the city to purchase the Masonic Temple. Is it suitable for a City Hall? We don't think so. How much will it cost to operate and maintain it? Plenty. Heating is one of the big items. That a janitor will have to be employed full time is another.

It would not be consistent with economy to station the fire truck there. Where we are now maintaining our fire department on a fixed charge of $150.00 per month with one man in charge, both day and night, it would be necessary to employ two men, a night man and a day man. It might be said that the salary we are now paying could be split and the department operated at the same fixed charge. Granted it could, but would we have a fire department operated with the proven efficiency that it is now being operated? We don't think so. Grenada has the best fire department of any town in the state of equal size and we say let it alone.

Last but not least, Grenada has issued thousands of dollars worth of bonds in the past several months and pay day must come. You, Mr. Citizen, owe what your town owes.

FIRE TRAP SCHOOLS

Again the North American continent has been the scene of a ghastly school fire—a small college in Montreal, in which the death list was more than a score. The hundred-odd pupils and students who were saved owe their lives to miraculously good fortune.

As many authorities have pointed out, the condition in thousands of American schools presents a constant hazard to their occupants. And this is true not only of old wooden buildings which were erected before much was known of fire-resistant construction. Many a relatively new school, though handsome and massive in appearance, is honeycombed with unnecessary hazards. Inadequate stairways, doors that open inward, poorly situated fire escapes—these are but a few of the dangers that can be found in schools built at great cost in recent years, as well as in the ramshackle buildings of yesterday.

The school boards which have jurisdiction over these dangerous buildings didn't consciously approve hazardous design and construction. They simply didn't know any better. But here is a case where ignorance is no excuse—where, indeed, it is in the nature of a crime. No school should be built until qualified experts have examined and approved the blueprints. And every existing school—no matter how safe it may seem to the layman—should be inspected by experts in order to unearth and correct possible dangers.

Thousands of children have died in school fires that would not have occurred had the buildings been properly constructed. Every parent should demand fire-safe schools.

WILL THE SIGNAL BE, RELEASE BRAKES?

Testifying before the special Senate committee which is investigating unemployment and relief, John J. Pelly, President of the Association of American Railroads, said that with increased revenues and a return of normal traffic, the lines, could not only stimulate industrial development throughout the country by resumption of railroad buying in large volume, thus giving employment to hundreds of thousands in a long list of industries, but could also reemploy thousands of their own workers who have been furloughed.

When railway business is good, he added, the lines utilize more than 20 percent of the coal output of the country, nearly 20 percent of the fuel oil output, and more than 15 percent of the iron and steel output, plus tremendous quantities of other heavy goods, such as cement, stone and gravel. If their traffic and revenues returned to a more normal level, he estimates that they could easily install 2,000 new locomotives and 100,000 new freight cars per year. By way of contrast, in 1937 they installed less than 500 new locomotives and but 75,000 new freight cars.

The figures indicate what has happened to the railroads. For the first 11 months of last year, their gross operating revenue was 5.1 percent greater than in the same period in 1936. Their operating expenses were up 7.6 percent—and their net revenue was down 5.5 percent. Diminished railroad buying and employment was the inevitable result. The lines have been carrying more traffic, but earning less money—because of the impossibility of making 1932 rates cover 1937 costs.

The public interest in the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the railroads' request for a 15 percent freight rate increase—which would partially offset increased costs over which the railroads have no control—is self-evident.

The State of Mississippi and Jackson was honored last week with a visit to his native State of Dick Merrill, famous trans-Atlantic flyer, who has the distinction of being the only man who has flown across the Atlantic ocean four times.

Merrill came to Jackson on the invitation of Governor Hugh L. White, and a joint session of the Mississippi Legislature was held in his honor. The House chamber and galleries were packed with members of both Houses, State officials and visitors from Jackson and other sections of Mississippi who came to do honor to the famous air-man who has brought distinction to his native Mississippi. Mr. Merrill, who had just been commissioned a Colonel on the official staff of Governor White, was presented to the vast audience by the Chief Executive. Colonel Merrill spoke very briefly, stating frankly his appreciation of the honors shown him, and this was the greatest thrill of his eventful life, when his home folks assembled to pay him this tribute of admiration. He said he owed his success to the "inspiration that I got in Mississippi," and that wherever he went he never fails to remember his home state of Mississippi. Col. Merrill was born at Iuka, Tishomingo county, and made his home in his earlier manhood at Jackson and McComb, during which period he fired a locomotive on the I. C. Railroad.

A few weeks ago, Dr. F. J. Underwood, executive Health Officer for the State of Mississippi, made a very interesting and informative radio address over this station, on the subject of "Progress in Cancer Control," and since making this address Dr. Underwood has had this address printed in pamphlet form. Dr. Underwood states most emphatically that cancer is curable, and then warns you of the "ifs" and "buts" of the statement, meaning at least one thing, that "if" cancer is not discovered at an early stage, the fight is harder. He states that the cause of cancer has never been ascertained, and in its earlier stages does not cause pain, and this fact alone causes many hopeless cases, because when pain is experienced, it is sometimes too late for proper treatment. The book is very interesting, and reveals among other things that thousands of people in this country annually. Last year there were 140,000 people died of cancer in the United States, and of this number, there were 1300 died in Mississippi. Dr. Underwood urges every citizen to take a part in the control of this dread disease.

The Board of Trustees of the University and College held a regular meeting on yesterday in the executive offices at the New Capitol. All members of the Board were present, except Messrs. Bledsoe, of Greenwood and Hazard of Columbus. Besides confirming the selection of coaches at State College, the Board went into the election of college and university heads for the school year of 1938-39, with the result that all of the present heads of institutions were reelected.

Some of the more outstanding House and Senate introductions of the past week include the following: H. B. 242 is an act that would provide for a division of the sales tax revenues, so that counties and municipalities of the state would receive 50 percent of same, and imposing penalties of county and municipal boards for the improper use and diversion of such funds. H. B. 243 is an act that would provide for a change in the motor vehicle tax paying year for road and bridge privilege taxes, from Jan. 1st to December 31st, as it now stands, to a year beginning November 1st and ending October 31st.

H. B. 244 would amend the act of 1896, creating a motor vehicle commissioner, by further defining his duties.

H. B. 246 would provide for an increased scale of graduated tax on incomes in Mississippi. H. B. 247 would reduce the tax on kerosene from 1c to 1/2c.

H. B. 252 would provide for the publication of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors each month, for the furnishing of copy of such proceedings to the newspaper by the chancery clerk, and providing penalties for violations of this law by the chancery clerk or any member of the Board of Supervisors.

H. B. 254 is another bill to provide for the creation of a department of labor and for all the necessary provisions relative thereto.

H. B. 255 would provide assistance for the needy blind and needy aged of the state, and further amending Chapter 176 of the Laws of 1936 relative to the duties and powers of the State Board of Public Welfare.

H. B. 256 is an act to create a state text book purchasing board, and to provide that said board shall adopt, purchase and furnish to children of public schools free adopted text books, and to provide for a state text book commission and prescribe its duties. A similar bill has been introduced in the Senate.

H. B. 266 would create through the board of supervisors of counties, a county department of animal husbandry and to employ a commissioner of animal husbandry to administer same.

H. B. 267 is an act to increase fees allowed to tax collectors, state tax collector, constables, peace officers and others authorized to collect taxes.

H. B. 269 would provide authority to circuit clerks to perform marriage ceremonies.

H. B. 275 is an act requiring a license for opening, operating and maintaining of a store, or chain of stores, and fixing an occupation tax thereon, and to provide for certain duties of the tax commission in connection therewith.

H. B. 276 is an act to designate the "Magnolia" as the state tree of Mississippi. A like bill has been introduced in the Senate.

H. B. 287 and S. B. 197 are identical bills, providing for the creation of a state bond commission, and authorizing the issuance, sale and delivery of highway refunding bonds, and highway bonds for the further completion of the highway program, as enlarged by the present legislature, authorizing the cooperation with the federal government, and for other purposes.

Senate Bill 164 would amend the code section 4937 to require circuit clerks of each county to furnish the state board of health certain statistical information in reference to marriages.

S. B. 165 is an act to require persons between the ages of 21 and 50 years to give not less than five days nor more than eight days of special road service or to authorize a commutation road tax of not less than $3.00 nor more than $5.00 in lieu thereof, and to provide the manner of assessing and collecting same, and penalties, etc.

S. B. 166 would provide for the establishment and maintenance of public libraries, and to provide for the administration of said law. A like bill has been introduced in the House.

S. B. 167 is a companion bill to H. B. 256, which would provide for a state text book purchasing board and the furnishing of free text books in public schools.

Senate Bills No. 178, 179 and 180 are bills that concern the ginning and handling of cotton, and would provide that records of gin numbers be kept by those who handle cotton; that ginners keep records of cotton ginned and place number and name on each bale ginned, and to require persons buying cotton to keep records thereof.

S. B. 174 is an act to amend several sections of Chapter 176 of the Laws of 1936, so as to better provide for payment of total benefits for total unemployment in certain cases, and to define certain terms therein.

S. B. 185 seeks to protect the public against fraudulent, untrue and misleading advertisements, and to provide that any person, firm or corporation guilty of such a practice shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

S. B. 188 is an act to protect trademark owners against injurious practices in the distribution of articles of standard quality under a distinct trade mark, brand or name.

H. H. Miller Profits By Use Of Terraces

With 30 acres of meadow strips in use as terrace outlet channels on his 1,270-acre farm, H. H. Miller, of Madison, cooperated in the Soil Conservation Service demonstration area near Canton, is expecting to get a lot of extra hay as an incidental benefit from this modern method of controlling surplus terrace water.

The use of meadow strips and other vegetated waterways for safely conducting surplus water out of terraced fields is an important part of the erosion-control program being established in demonstration areas in cooperation with the Mississippi Extension Service.

Some of the meadow strips on the Miller farm are seeded to service lespedeza, some to Tennessee 76, and some to common lespedeza. From the first cutting on a 7 1/2 acre strip, Manager A. M. Stout reported that five to six tons of hay was obtained. This first cutting was principally to get rid of outlay grasses and to improve the quality of the next cutting, he said.

During the second cutting, Mr. Stout expects to save some seed for use in erosion-control plantings in other areas as well as to get a good crop of hay and leave some seed for reseeding.

Pinkerton Profits by Contour Cultivation

A 2 1/2-acre plot around his house serves as a constant reminder to E. W. Pinkerton of the value of contour cultivation for conserving soil and moisture on his farm near West Point.

When "Pinkerton" had rows running up and down hill, corn on this plot burned up at the top of the slope and drowned at the bottom, he said.

After putting the rows on the contour, Pinkerton says the "water" just eased around that piece of ground, and as a result of the even distribution of moisture, he made 100 bushels of No. 1 corn on the 2 1/2-acre plot.

Federal Tax Curtails State Wages, Trade

Money available for spending in Mississippi to the total of $1,800,000 for wages and trade was taken out of the state and moved to Washington, D. C., in the form of payments of the duplicating federal tax on motor fuel in 1937 alone, it was reported today by J. P. Scott, Vice Chairman of the Mississippi Petroleum Industries Committee.

While this tax supposedly is paid by motorists, the effects are far-reaching and seriously affect retail trade, employment, and wages, Mr. Scott added, explaining that money spent for taxes cannot be used either to buy necessities or to pay wages.

"Our organization estimates that federal gasoline taxes in 1938 cost Mississippi motorists 17.7 percent more than in 1936, or $271,000 above the $1,529,000 taken out of this state in 1936 by the federal government," he said. "As a matter of fact, this duplicating levy has cost the people of Mississippi a total of roughly $7,914,000 since it was first imposed in 1932."

"Of course Congress did not intend to take $7,194,000 away from the taxpayers, the business men, and the workers of Mississippi. The tax was viewed as only a 'temporary' levy for the 'emergency.' But it has been continued year after year, and the enormous economic loss to our state has grown."

Children In Court

(By Judge Malcolm Hatfield)

A court officer discovered that a delinquent girl shared two rooms with her parents, nine brothers and sisters and two additional relatives. She was practicing communism in its broadest interpretation. As this child owned nothing herself, she had no conception of the fact that police are provided for the protection of the individual and his property. Therefore, she came to regard police officers as enemies who were constantly prying into what she considered a legitimate means of adding to the family income. When this child was placed in a country boarding home, and given a bedroom of her own and various personal belongings, her entire attitude toward property rights underwent a decided change.

OPPORTUNITIES

The ambitious young man or woman who plans to take a business course in the near future should arrange to begin their training immediately in order to be first in line for a choice position this fall. ## Children In Court

(By Judge Malcolm Hatfield)
A psychiatrist was assigned the task of assisting the parents of a delinquent girl in discovering how they themselves were responsible for her development of certain manifestations that led to abnormal behavior. This was the first time these parents had ever attempted to trace the source of such manifestations.

After the second interview the psychiatrist was able to point out certain conditions prevailing within the family which were responsible for her behavior. He emphasized the fact that these parents placed greater emphasis on physical hygiene and not enough significance on mental hygiene, symptoms which were indicated by their daughter's tendencies toward day dreaming, jealousy and self-consciousness.

Parental attitudes are exceedingly important, since the average child unconsciously adopts the viewpoints which the parents hold. Consequently parents frequently need assistance from a psychiatrist in working out their own goals of achievement, and also their own attitudes and relationships to each other and the other members of the family.

Soil Conservation and Wildlife Management Go Hand In Hand

Soil conservation and wildlife management go hand in hand, according to a new Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletin that explains how farmers in the Southeast can control soil erosion and at the same time create potential havens for game birds, fur-bearing animals, and various other forms of desirable farm wildlife.

The bulletin, "Wildlife Conservation Through Erosion Control in the Southeast," was written by Ross O. Stevens, formerly of the Soil Conservation Service, and now with the North Carolina State College, who declares the relation between soil conservation and wildlife management is so close that by proper planning, the benefits of both can be achieved in the same operation.

Stevens declares that erosion has left scars in the form of gullies, galled spots, and impoverished fields, on a majority of farms in the Southeast. By heeding these scars with vegetation which benefits wildlife, farmers can prevent the damage from spreading to adjacent good lands and the eroded areas, often considered worthless, can be put to work producing crops of wildlife.

The bulletin describes in detail the various practices that have proved successful in both soil and wildlife conservation and gives complete information concerning the selection of proper shrubs and other fruits and seed-bearing plants that are effective in erosion control and especially beneficial to wildlife.

In pointing out the advantages of an abundance of wildlife, the writer says the birds, animals and other species, help protect crops against pests, provide sport and recreation, add beauty to the farm, and in some cases have a real market value. Any possible damage to farm crops by increased numbers of wildlife is ordinarily offset by the other values, he says.

The new publication is Farmers' Bulletin No. 1768 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is written in popular style and is free of illustrations. Copies may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. at 5 cents each.

54,000 Farmers Did Not Sign Work Sheet

(By F. J. Huret)
Realizing that the daily and weekly newspapers furnish the most effective means of quickly reaching the largest number of people when the agricultural interests and general welfare of the state is involved, the Mississippi Extension Service, the State AAA, the county agents, and the AAA committees, ask your cooperation in reaching the approximately 54,000 farmers of the state who did not sign a 1937 work sheet.

While about 80 percent of all cotton acreage was covered by work sheets in 1937, only about 60 percent of the farmers cooperated in the farm program. This means that in the main, those who did not sign a work sheet last year were small farmers.

Unless those farmers file a 1937 work sheet they will not be eligible to receive the subsidy payment on the 1937 crop nor will they receive an allotment under the 1938 program. The State AAA office estimates that growers would lose approximately $4,000,000 in subsidy payments unless they file these work sheets. In addition, it is probable that they will have to pay a tax on production of cotton unless they file such a work sheet and obtain an allotment under the 1938 program. The county agents have not been able to get the correct address of all these growers and it will be difficult to locate and contact all of them.

OLD PROVIDENCE

floated lazily by. I thought what a fine place for the Angels to play. It was a wonderful sight to see the people as they flocked to church in those days the church was always filled. They came horse-back, mule-back, in buggies, wagons and walking. Many people from other places and from Grenada were often there. There were always those lovable and unique characters, Mr. Tom and Meredith Bowen, the Lamons, Burkes, Coelays, Rayburns, Tribbles, Daniels, Roberts, Caffays, Cummings, Beards, Beavers, Bowers, and many others who had across my mind in halcyon days.

people swiftness too numerous to mention individually. Yet each filling a sweet place in my memory and affections. The Caffays always rode nice horses to church and everybody watched them ride in for they were a crowd of fine looking girls, they wore long riding skirts and rode as did all ladies then, side-ways. Mr. Willie Bowen and the Lavett boys were casting wistful eyes in that direction. Mr. Bob Caffey was a smiling, affable young man, very popular.

Protracted meetings were great days, associations lasted much longer and were events looked forward to with much more joy and anticipation than today. Pious dinners were served often upon the ground. Sometimes for baptizing the stream from the spring was dammed up again nearby pools were used. The first baptizing I remember, I was very small. My sister Lydia, Miss Dora Shelton, (now Mrs. Sulten) and Miss Hattie Burke were baptized. Miss Dora is still living and I am still proud to know she is my friend. There were no choirs in those days, Mr. Mac Daniels led the singing, he had a clear, sweet voice. He stuttered when he talked, but not when he sang, I can, in memory now, hear him as he sang "How Firm a Foundation," "Ye Saints of the Lord." He was opposed to the choir which was afterwards organized, saying "I don't know narry note in the hymn book" but sing with the love of God bubbling out of my heart. Mr. Houston Roberts was one of the gentlest and sweetest characters I ever knew, was a man of few words but prayed a beautiful prayer and more than any one else was called on the pray.

Children's Day was a happy day. On one occasion many of us young ones memorized and recited chapters from the Bible. My chapter was the fourteenth chapter of John. Another among the many who recited was Miss Blanche Roberts, she was a fine girl and grew into a very wonderful and noble woman, during good whenever she can. She afterwards married Mr. Hicks, a splendid man and Baptist minister, and together they carry on in the name of the Master as God gives them light to see that way. On the Children's Day I mention, we each as a reward, received a little Bible. I have mine today. I wish space permitted me to say something of all the early consecrated pastors, Thompson, Riley, and Hicks, and others, but can only say (sweet memory).

Long gone is the old church forgotten by all save a few. Long gone are the dear faces who graced the pews, but when the same sacred ground, the birds still sing, the white fleecy clouds which I thought the Angels' play ground still float lazily over. The old spring I associated with, the water of life still flows cold pure and sweet, and somewhere across the vaulted blue those same old people worship around the throne of God. Mr. Mac Daniels still sings "How Firm a Foundation." Mr. Talbert with his cheery smile still greets the members, Mr. Houston Roberts is rejoicing that he may still in prayer say, "Blessed be the name of the Lord."
